INTERNATIONAL SYMPOSIUM
OF INFORMATION SCIENCE
19 - 21 May, Zadar

Re:inventing Information Science in the Networked Society

The International Symposium of Information Science (ISI) is a bi-annual gathering of scholars, researchers and students from Europe and beyond who share a common interest in critical information issues in contemporary society. The conference series originated in the German-language information science community but has become more and more international in recent years. Since 1990, conferences have been hosted in Potsdam (www.isi2013.de), Hildesheim (www.isi2011.de), Graz (Austria), Chur (Switzerland) and Prague (Czech Republic), among other places. This time, the 14th International Symposium of Information Science (ISI 2015) will take place in Zadar, Croatia, from May 19 to May 21, 2015 and will be co-organized by the Department of Information Sciences at the University of Zadar and the German Academic Association for Information Science (Hochschulverband Informationswissenschaft e.V.), in association with the Association of Information Science and Technology (ASIS&T). The printed conference proceedings will be published by Verlag Werner Hülsbusch (vwh Verlag).
